

UTAH

According to the 2020 Utah Statewide Airport Economic Impact Study, the total economic impact of general aviation airports in Utah is over $291 million annually.

Aviation by the Numbers

According to FAA data, Utah is home to 42 public-use general aviation airports, 15,945 pilots, and 8,445 registered aircraft.

Number of Jobs

According to the 2020 Utah Statewide Airport Economic Impact Study, general aviation airports in Utah support more than 2,700 jobs and over $139 million in labor income.

Economic Impact

According to the same study, the total economic impact of general aviation airports in Utah is over $291 million per year.

According to FAA data, Utah is home to 33 repair stations, 18 FAA-approved pilot schools, 5,992 student pilots, and 3,280 flight instructors.

In addition, according to the AC-U-KWIK directory, 41 fixed-base operators are located in the state.

According to the University Aviation Association, flight departments in Utah include Salt Lake Community College in Salt Lake City, Southern Utah University in Cedar City, and Utah Valley University in Provo.

Advanced Air Mobility

A Utah AAM economic impact study projects that advanced air mobility could create more than 11,000 new full-time jobs; generate more than $8 billion in new business activity; and produce $1.8 billion in local, state, and federal tax revenues in the state from 2025 through 2045.

